

Environment, Health & Safety Technology Review

Alan V. Carter, Scott R. Smith Environmental Management Consultants, Inc., Lexington, KY

Overwhelmed by the mountains of available technology? Lost when it comes to evaluating the alternatives? Having trouble determining what is a good investment? Need help with the build-or-buy decision? How can you lease or outsource your application needs? The major types of EH&S software available on the market today will be examined in this paper. Information will be provided on how to successfully complete an EH&S technology initiative, including how to select the most appropriate product, selling your initiative to management, managing the implementation project, and rolling out the successful solution.
